Dear Ari and Lauren:

Good afternoon.

I am writing to acknowledge your incredible work resulting in Bleeding Out. As someone who has been providing trauma care since 1993 and is currently among many who are fighting for the ability to initiate prehospital blood transfusions across the country, I cannot thank you enough. Your work may be the single resource that the country has needed to enable it to finally acknowledge the significant loss of life attributed to bureaucratic nonsense and, most importantly, the disparities associated with prehospital care, in general.

Thanks again for this tremendous work that will have a direct correlation to the avoidance of preventable deaths.

Sincerely,

JT
